

Television and Media Producer

This is an important job as the whole world may watch broadcasts of NASA launches. From filming engines to recording missions and visiting dignitaries (like The President), the team works to create images of what happens at NASA so the public gets a glimpse into the importance of NASA's work.

Biography - Mike (works for NASA)

What did you want to be when you grew up?

A Rock Star, Movie Producer, Pilot, or Architect

What do you wish you had known then that you know now about education after high school?

College is not solely a didactic learning experience. It's not all lectures, research, and long hours of study. It offers a new network of friends, exposure to new and different ideas, and most importantly, a place to grow into the person you will become.

What do you do in your job?

I'm responsible for the entire production from developing the concept and directing the crew to final delivery